Parents/Carers,

Welcome to the 2017 school year. I trust that you had an enjoyable holiday with a chance to spend time with family and friends. I extend a warm welcome to the many new families beginning their time at Lyndhurst, our new Year 7 families, but also those who have joined across Years 8 to 12.

I am very excited about the year ahead and hope that all students take up the opportunities offered through sport, performing arts and academic challenges, throughout the year. I also encourage our students to consider applying for one of the various leadership roles, and we will be working very closely with the student body to enhance student voice and work with our students to continually improve our school and make Lyndhurst Secondary College the school of choice.

I welcome our 2017 Year 12 School Captains: Jarrod Friday, Denise Campang, Rebecca Zahra and Kayla Hill.

I commend them on obtaining these very important leadership positions for 2017 and I look forward to working with them to maintain a caring and lively school environment.

A reminder, our vision and values are as follows:

Empowering students for learning and life

Our values:
- Commitment
- Excellence
- Integrity
- High expectations
- Respect for self, others and environment

February 8th 2017
High Expectations:

In 2017 we will continue to build on the work started in 2015, where we focused on raising expectations of everyone in our school community. At Lyndhurst Secondary College we expect more of our students and know that they can achieve great things. Expecting students to arrive to school and class on time, ready for learning is key to ensure success for all students. We expect our students to be in full school uniform, and our staff to dress professionally; a student dress code not only engenders pride in personal appearance, but instils recognition of students as an integral part of the Lyndhurst Secondary College community; it creates a sense of belonging. The College will continue to have high expectations of our students, not only in these areas but also with regards to attendance, work ethic, conduct and upholding our values of commitment, excellence, integrity and respect for self, others and the environment. Our staff will be asked to challenge and expect more from each student in their class, helping them not only achieve their personal best, but to continue to strive for more.

As a school community, parents, carers, staff and students, we will work together to continue to raise expectations and improve our students’ outcomes in both their learning and wellbeing.

VCE and VCAL 2016:

We have a lot to celebrate going into 2017. Our VCE students did us proud in 2016; the focus on high expectations for our Year 12 students, together with quality teaching, resulted in a median of 26 but more significantly there was a shift to the right in terms of students’ achievements – significantly more students (greater than 63%) achieved a study score of 26 or above – a significant achievement and growth from previous years. VCAA provides us with reports on how our students achieved based on their predicated GAT results; in over 10 subjects our students achieved significantly better than predicted – a credit to their hard work, our staff’s high expectations and belief in our students and the continued focus we are having in supporting our students in achieving their very best. Our students ATAR scores also improved significantly with a large majority of our Year 12 students achieving ATAR scores that provide them with strong pathways post-secondary schooling. Our VCAL students also achieved excellent results with most moving onto further studies, apprenticeships or work. All our students are to be congratulated and we wish them success with whatever their chosen pathway is.

The year has started smoothly with students settling straight into their daily school routine, arriving to school and to class on time and wearing their uniform with pride. We will continue to raise expectations of all our students with a particular focus on our VCE and VCAL students, challenging them to work harder, focus on their studies and work towards achieving their very best. We will work with parents, providing them with regular progress reports on their students and together we will support our young people in raising their expectations of themselves and supporting them in achieving their goals.

We will also continue to raise expectations of our students in Middle School and our Year 10 students, focussing on the quality and quantity of student work, including the amount of homework and study that students do. To support our students, our teaching staff are continuing the next stage of their journey on our teaching and learning model, a copy of which is displayed in every classroom. This will continue to form the major professional development for our teaching staff throughout this year and on our curriculum days, outlined below. Our teachers will continue to meet regularly, collaborating and planning/discussing strategies, providing students with feedback to support the learning of all our students.

Professional Development/Curriculum Days (Student Free Days) for 2017:
Monday 1st May
Friday 2nd June
Monday 6th November

Presentations & Awards – 2016:
Congratulations to all our 2016 major award recipients. Thanks go to each of the organisations that provide sponsorship for the respective awards. We are still in the process of attaining information about the destinations of our Year 12 students from last year. A summary of this information will be provided in a future newsletter.

College Council Election:
College Council has a very important role in providing overall governance of our College. This includes policy development, financial accountability and the strategic direction of the College. Each year an election is held for half of the Council. Please consider being involved in this important forum. If you would like to discuss this further then please make contact with me at the College. Election notices have been placed in this newsletter.

Sub School News:

Lyndhurst Secondary College has implemented a School Wide Positive Behaviour Support (SWPBS) program to establish a school climate in which appropriate behaviour is the norm for all students. SWPBS is an evidence-based approach which promotes proactive and explicit teaching of behavioural expectations.

We acknowledge and give recognition to students for following the expectations, rather than waiting for misbehaviour and unacceptable behaviour to occur before responding. As part of the SWPBS program, staff will now be able to acknowledge students for demonstrating our values in a more formal manner. The commendations are specifically related to the College values of commitment, excellence, integrity and respect and will be visible to parents/carers and students on Compass. Students with the most commendations for a particular value will be acknowledged at assemblies.

One component of SWPBS is the display of an expectation matrix. The matrix explicitly outlines how each behavioural expectation manifests or looks. The matrix is then used as both a reference point and teaching tool throughout the school year. The Lyndhurst Secondary College Behaviour Expectation matrix is displayed in all teaching spaces and other areas of the school and is an integral part of the framework for creating a positive, safe and engaging school environment.

Teaching and Learning News:

Resilience, Rights and Respectful Relationships

In 2017 we will be introducing the new Resilience, Rights and Respectful Relationships curriculum from years 7-12. As Educators, we have been working with young people teaching them on how to have respectful relationships for many years. As of 2017, alignment with the Department of Education’s new Resilience, Rights and Respectful Relationships curriculum it will be explicitly taught as part of the curriculum.

The Resilience Rights and Respectful Relationships curriculum will be covered in Health classes at years 7 and 8, Inquiry at year 9 and in the Tutorials program at years 10, 11 and 12. The curriculum has been designed to develop students’ social, emotional and positive relationships skills. The Resilience, Rights and Respectful Relationships curriculum is only one part of this whole school approach. Resilience, Rights and Respectful Relationships will also be reflected by our staff modelling positive behaviours, positive teacher – student relationships and creating school policies and practices that promote wellbeing, respectful relationships and gender equality. We will also partner with families and the community to help promote Resilience, Rights and Respectful Relationships.

We see the Resilience, Rights and Respectful Relationships program as a positive way of ensuring our students grow into strong, successful young adults who are ready to be positive members of society after completing school. Our school vision is empowering students for learning and life and the Resilience, Rights and Respectful Relationships program helps support that vision.

Science News:

Welcome to Science for 2017. We have a very busy year planned for students. Firstly, I would like to welcome the year 7 students to Lyndhurst Secondary College. They are a very enthusiastic group and are looking forward to the experiments in Science. Students will begin the year by learning about the safe use of the equipment we use in the science lab. Students will learn how to use a Bunsen burner and will demonstrate its’ safe use to gain their Bunsen burner licenses.

We are pleased to announce that we are running a new science elective this year for year 9 students. Students will begin by focusing on the dynamic earth we inhabit. This will lead onto ecosystems, local flora and fauna and some hands-on work to redevelop the pond area outside the library.

Senior science classes are well under way and students are hard at work.

This year we will be running a Science Club Every Wednesday lunchtime in A2. It will have an environment focus and will include setting up a more effective recycling system within the college, develop, run and maintain a vegetable patch and be involved in ensuring that our Lyndhurst environment is looking great. If you have any further questions, please see Ms Carroll.

Transition News:

The year 7 students of 2017 have begun their Secondary education journey by participating in a 3 day Welcome program. Students participated in getting to know you activities, orienteering around the school and a number of important sessions for teenagers, including cyberbullying, conflict resolution and being a team player.

Our new arrivals are now settling well into secondary school life, using a locker, reading a time table and moving to different classes around the College campus to meet their subject teachers. We wish our new Lyndhurst members good luck with their education.

We are currently busy preparing for our open night to be held on Wednesday 15th March. A team of staff and our student leaders will be out meeting local primary school families over the next 5 weeks. Our aim will be to get out into the community, letting parents know the great opportunities Lyndhurst can offer their children.
